Berützenen Tenerens To Bicycles

London, Oct. 1.—The biggest cycling boom in Britain's history is now underway. The cyclist's touring club reported it has new members coming in the rate of 500 to 600 each month, and its membership has risen to 47,000 in the past year. An official of the CTC said shortage of "money, higher rallway fares and "queues for almost everything" at coastal resorts are responsible for the new generation of cyclists who want the CTC which plans cycling tours for its members, either singly or in parties, to arrange for them cheap, open air holidays. The CTC hopes to have a 60,000 membership by 1950.-Associated Press.

Insurgents Abandon Big Village

Rangoon, Oct. 1.—Thongwa, the last big village before the rebel held town of Kayan in the Kanthave ddy district, was captured by Government troops, without fighting, Friday's official communique said,

The rebels evacuated Thongwa prior to the Government forces' entry and fled to the Kayan headquarters where they are expected to make a stand. The communique said that several villages to the north are now in Government hands. The communique stated, that the Burmese Navy gunboats spearheaded the Government attack upon the big riverine rebel headquarters in the delta district of Pyapon, northwest of Rangoon. Details of the engagement are awaited, it said,

The latest reports received early on Friday said six rebels were killed and 10, including "two important persons," were arrested in | month and boarding room accombattle between Government | modation at $700. troops and the rebels in Kyeinauk village in Central Burma. -- Associated Press,

"Warning" Strike In France

Coal, Electricity, Gas Prices Up

Paris, Oct. 1.-About . 150,-000 workers-both Communist and non-Communist unionsin the French nationalised gas electricity services downed tools in a four-hour "warning" strike against a Government decision to cut, their staff by one-tenth.

Gas pressure was low in Paris homes from 8 n.m. until noon; and electric light was cut off intermittently, but the essential services were kept going.

At the same time, the French Cabinet approved, substantial increases in coal, electricity, gas, and gasoline prices, 24 hours after the grant of a general wage increase of up to 15 per cent.

The recommendations will not, however, operate until consultations are held with the National Price Committee.

The price increases were: coal 22.5 percent a ton; electricity 19.5 percent a kilowatt hour; gas for domes ie users and bakeries 25 percent, for others, by contract; gasoline 30 francs a litre for priority users (as against 32 francs at present) and 64 francs for non-priority

MINERS THREAT

Meanwhile, efforts continued today to avert a threatened strike of 335,000 miners which would deprive France of 145,000 tons of coal a day and possibly paralyse railways and industries.

Bakers who are fighting a "coupon war" with the Government put bread on sale in Paris without coupons today ... The National Bakers Association decided two days ago that they would not count bread coupons any more but simply hand in those they received in bulk.

The Miners Federation, affiliated to the Communist-led General Confederation of Labour, tonight called on France's 335,000 miners to come out on strike on Monday, October 4. but M. Robert Lacoste, the Minister of Industry and Commerce, has appealed to the miners to abandon the strike.—Reuter.

Colony's Living Costs

ed on this page today, and while the figures will startle few people. they are on the record for reference purposes and may even afford some help to the committee now sitting to investigate Government servants' high cost of living allowances. In the main. the answers to the questionnaire provided a good cross-section of European living costs. Our Chinese readers did not readily respond to the invitation to disclose confidentially their living expenses and in consequence only in two groups—a family of three, and a family of five-has it been possible to gain any accurate ldea of what it is costing Chinese married couples and their families to live. But the figures which are available are impressive. A family of three needs an income of $500 a month if they are not to run into debt; a family of five requires an income of $840. These are expenditures which make the current cost of Hylng Index and food and fuel averages look rather futile. For the family of three, food, light and fuel alone amount to an average of $260 a month, and for the larger family $400. Not so apparent is whether, on the average, the Chinese worker with a family of three or five is earning as much as $560 and $840 a month respectively. Furthermore, the inbutated figures convincingly demonstrate that the Colony's cost of living is by no means going down. The bare essentials of everyday life appear to be as high now as they were a year and more ago. A few luxury lines show reduced prices, largely because the market has become glutted with those particular food, servants, lighting and heating, transport, schooling and other necessary items remain at a high level-and display no signs of reduction. Frankly, the problem posed by the results of the HCL Questionnaire is how can living costs be brought down? In practically every instance the questionnaire was filled in honestly, and in some cases it was shown that familles are having to exceed their incomes every month. The crying need is for a reduction. in retail prices of consumer goods. Yet there seems to be little prospects in that direction. Despite the plentitude of everyweek; almost day to day, but never has it become really cheap since the war. The same can be said about meat. And ilnned foodstuffs, which constitute an important part of the average family's 'diet, are, generally speaking, highly priced despite blg supplies. It is noticeable that today, with certain commodities, the generally accepted economic law of supply and demand is no longer effective in relation to retall prices, and the indications are that living costs have, for the most part, found their new

The average broken down figures monthly expenditure on items listed show that a family of four spends $120 on rent, $640 for food, $180 servants, $71 light and fuel, $30 for schooling, $99 on clothing, $73 for transport, and $73 for sundries.

NEW FEATURE HAS A SPECIAL APPEAL TO STUDENTS

The University Programme

To Hongkong students who plan to go to an English university, the new Radio Hongkong feature which starts tomorrow night, "The University Programme," should offer a special appeal.

The purpose of the series is not to give a University course over the air but to help those who plan to go to Britain as undergraduates or for research to choose their field of study and to decide at which University, College or Institution they can best find the kind of tuition they

At the hospital they strapped her to an expanding hed which held immovable the upper part of her body while her right leg was under constant stretch.

Even her eyes seemed imprisoned, for at first she could see little but the ceiling, with a glimpse of the beds either side.

For two bewildering weeks the once comping schoolgirl could think of nothing. For eight months, at teast, she knew she would be there, her body helpless.

Then Mrs. Whitaker, headmistress of Blyth, took over. She sent her all the books she needed to start preparing for her examination.

Mrs. Whitaker knew her as among the first four girls in the form. She could not let her ruin her school career.

Alma soon - learned - there were children in the ward with greater troubles than her own. Some had their bodies misshapen, only slowly distinctions. She did all the work, responding to treatment.

Such examples of the leather-worker's art are all being made for export by United Kingdom manufacturers. Now the order of the day for women's handbags is the unmistakably feminine bag, soft shaped, with delicate folds of suede, dainty frames and sometimes ornamented with jewels. Colours are either soft pastel shades of grey, blue or Grecian gold, or gay reds and yellows. Today gloves are an important part of a woman's accessories. Toning in with her dress, handbag and shoes, they are made in soft suedes, again in pastel or bright colours, and are often ornamented with matching lacing on the backs, perhaps perforated with a pleasing design. Some have ornamental bracelets round the wrists, and others, toning in with the alternate strips of suede and grain

Latest fashlons in shoes show that the medium wooden wedge has gone for good, and high heels, so flattering to ankles and poise, have taken their place. Dainty scrolls ornament the short-fronted high-heeled court shoe or several instep straps carry through the smartness of a new striped dress. For sports and leisure, there are the very flat cushion-soled casuals of classic line.

Leather Cothing Even more outstanding in the fashion field are the exciting -new designs in leather clothing. Suedo dresses have provided something different for cocktail occasions. In, perhaps, pin striped antelope grey, the suede is softly flared at the skirt, and three-quarter length sleeves and classical high neckline add grace to the soft material. For holiday wear there are "pedother, people the most eloquent and powerful forces in us are our emotions. They cannot be hidden. They are not expressed alone in words. Indeed, they are a universal language. Even an infant a few weeks old can read them.

Human emotions are most cloquent, as rule, in all family relationships-between husband and wife, parent and child, or among other persons there. They are the legal tender of all exchange in Post and Hong Kong Telegraph family endearments or family conflicts.

> These facts make it difficult to tell any one clearly how to be a good husband or wife or parent or how to solve any parent problem. It may be easy to give directions for operating a perfectly good machine. But how much more difficult to operate another person of any age at home or elsewhere.

No Specific Rules

There are no specific rules that one can put into words, which show how always to manage one's emotions perfectly. Emotions are too

> Suppose the youngster aged two, does not want to eat his carrots or drink his milk or eat other foods you know he should have. You are concerned about his proper nourishment. You want him to eat amply of what you prepare for him. You want to cultivate a good appetite in him. But as you seem to face defeat you are vexed and anxious. The youngster sensing your emo-tions also gets some like them. You urge or try to force the child to eat. He resists with anger. Your vexation waxes.

Before you know it there may be an awful scene, the core of which are your emotions and the child's. At the next meal similar emotions arise in you and the youngster, growing in force with time. Practically all eating problems in the child one, three or ten are chiefly emotional, as you can see. Mani-festly the parent holds the strategic place. She can do most about it in accordance with her self-control over her emotions.

Think of all the ways in which hampering emotions can hinder you in winning co-operation of the tot concerning toilet habits, his learning to dress himself and to do other things for himself. Don't overlook the happy emotions which can win his co-operation in all such cases, not excepting eating happily what is set before hlm.

In a Rago

Call to mind the boy in a rage arguing with the "parent over her decision he dislikes, or the youth who suiks or grouches. Normally the emotions of his vex the parent who in turn furthers these unhappy emotions in him.

Consider all the arguments between parent and child, the shrill, ugly voices stirring up still greater anger in each other. Or all the parental jawings or exhortations arousing more anger in the child as well as in the jawer and exhorter. Back and forth the emotions swing like a pendulum, only hitting harder with each swing.

Of course, no parent can hope to gain or even closely approach perfection. Nevertheless, one truth is self-evident-every parent can improve in his relation to the child as this parent grows in the art of managing better and better his or her own emotions.

NEW hair styles for 1049 are already here, prompted by the changing NEW hair styles for 1049 are already here, prompted by the changing lines in millinery. The hair is being worn closer to the head, but it is not every woman who wants to cut her hair short enough to wear curls almost as close as the shingle of the 1920's. The solution to this problem is to give an impression of a short cut.

Here is a style designed specially by the famous colffeur, Riche, of Hay Hill, London. It shows the hair combed out from ringlets and dressed for daytime (in the two upper sketches) and for evening (lower sketch). For the latter, all the back hair is bunched into curls and the hair at the side combed up and brought forward; added hair combed into similar curls is pinned below the crown of the head.

Admittedly, the glandular changes occurring at this time demand a readjustment of the entire body, but since the changes themselves are the same for all women, modern science believes that the variation in their effects is due to differences in the type nervous system and its ability to withsland stress and strain.

A woman who is highly sensitive and easily upset may have symptoms early during the change of life, often before the periods stop. In fact, she may get similar symptoms during each monthly period.

Placid Woman

On the other hand, the stable, placid woman may go through the change of life without hardly any symptoms at all.

It is also interesting to note that women who tend to be gloomy and depressed at the time of the regular monthly periods will have similar symptoms at the time of the change of life. Those who are jittery or irritable and subject to hendache or stomach upsets will usually find these symptoms more noticeable, at the time of the change, In short, basic weaknesses which TNEVITABLY, Labour does not like the slowing down; of demobilisation.

This disappoints present hopes, goes back on past promises, and arouses fears for the future.

Many members are already assuming that the present step will be followed at least by an increase in the compulsory training period to the 18 months originally proposed.

The Government are fully aware of the unpopularity of their action, but they really have no alternative.

Their responsibility for taking necessary steps to safeguard the security of the country is absolute, and if they failed in this they would be wide open to attack.

NOW they must do the unpopular thing and justify it, IN as they are entitled to do, on the ground of grave difficult for play, At half past five on Sunday afternoon—the scheduled time for senior matches to commence—both Caroline Hill and Sookunpoo presented almost ideal football conditions.

There had been just enough rain to soften the ground, while the wind blew only in occasional and not over-strong gusts.

As I walked across the playing pitch at Caroline Hill I was very much struck with how similar were conditions to a blustery autumn afternoon at home. Compared with the hot sunshine of the day before, it was almost ideal for football.

The trouble on Sunday, of course, was that South China's opponents at Caroline Hill (the Police) were faced with the possible suspension of the ferry service to and from Kowloon, while both the Navy and the RAF were "closed up" at rough ferces and Linesmen. weather stations.

It is easy to see what has Inscinnical Miss Francesca Marton to the pitch of writing about a Victorian slavey. In Attle and Aren (excellent title!) she has indulged a passion for mid-nineteenth century domestic detail which must have haunted her since infancy. She is not interested in the belowstairs life of our own time, having no taste for fag-ends and decadence; no, she is drawn to the rich scene of domestic service in its prime, which is little more than a hundred years ago, the period of Mrs Beeton.

is not only the Victorian I maldservant that fascinates her, it is every detail of domestic life in superabundanily domestic period. It is the meats (three meat ments a day for the servants, with giblet soup, a pair of roast ducks, a dish of stenks in gravy and a gooseberry ple with cream going upstairs) the big coal fires, the starched caps and aprons, the looming clergymen, the knowing one's place, the dread of being turned off without a character.

The old enptain says waves in big storms average 25 feet high. This means that from trough to crest, the wave rises 1212 feet above the mean level of the water and falls an equal distance. Waves in hurricanes sometimes have measured 80 feet. They look like mountains about to smother a ship. Waves 60 feet high are not unusual in severe storms. These are measured easily because they break over the bridge. The bridge usually is about 60 feet above the waterline in big ships. But a 20-foot wave can be dashed over the bridge if it strikes at the right place at the right moment, and perhaps some of these 60-foot waves were exaggerations

Coup Makes Game In

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

CEORGE W. BEYNON, a national U tournament director of the American Contract Bridge League, gave me today's hand. George is the author of "Tournament and Duplicate Bridge," which is the only tournament manual available to tournament directors at the present time.

When a director gets a chance to play bridge, he does not miss many tricks. He is always on the lookout for the unusual, and Beynon found it in today's hand. West took the opener, and shifted to the jack of clubs, which Beynon won with the king. He led a small heart to dummy's queen and East won.

East returned the queen of spades, which was trumped in dummy with the four of hearts. Now the five of hearts was played, East followed with the seven and Beynon overtook with the eight. He led a diamond to dummy's ace, and when the singleton king dropped, Beynon played another diamond from dummy and won with the queen. The third round of diamonds was trumped by East with the deuce of hearts.

At this point East made the mistake of returning a spade. Beynon discarded a diamond and trumped in durnmy with his last heart, the six-spot. Now he cushed the ace and queen of clubs, and on the queen discarded his last diamond.

Thus he was left with the aco and ten of hearts, while East was left with the lack and nine of hearts. Beynon led a dlamond from dummy and he had. East couped. East trumped with the nine, Beynon overtrumped with the ten and laid down the acc for the last trick."

PROHIBITED MARRIAGES

Californian Law -Thrown Out

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—A Californian law prohibiting the marriage of white persons to those of negro, Mongolian, or Malayan blood was thrown out today by the State Supreme ↓ Court

The court declared that since the right to marry is the right to join in marriage with the person of one's choice, a law prohibiting a person from marrying a member of another race restricts his choice, thereby restricting his right to marry. ----THE-OBJECT

The object was to use these key organisations for political and propaganda purposes with a view to gaining power as quickly as possible for a Communist or Communistdominated cobinet.

The informant traced, various moves which have been made this country since the start of the occupation — so-called "production control" theory which enabled the Communists temporarily to seize various industries and some newspapers, in an effort to organise the general strike of February, 1947, and finally the effort to carry out strikes in key huge government unions such as the railway workers. Gen MacArthur understood the motive behind each of these moves as it was made, the informant said. His programme was to encourage the Japanese people and their government to defeat these moves on their own initiative. In times, when the Japanese government obviously was unable, to resist Communist pressure, such as the threatened February general strike. Supreme Commander hesitate to intervene personally. That was what happened in the General's letter to the Ashida Cabinet recommending that Japanese workers should not be permitted to strike.

FAVOURABLE REACTION The reaction of the American people to General MacArthur's methods in cotrolling this situation have been obviously favourable, an informant said. Editorial and other comments have vigorously supported the General's policy. The Informant concluded: "The violence of the Moscow outburst against General MacArthur's policy

Closed conferences have been taking place between sessions of the Governing Boards of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, diplomatic officials disclosed on Friday.

The Governors closed their third annual meeting on Friday. They were expected to choose Paris as the site of the 1949 meetings and to elect M. Plerro Mendes-France of France as chairman of the two boards.

The hub of the British-American talks is the requirement in the British loan agreement that England make the pound sterling freely convertible into dollars in foreign exchange. This requirement was waived temporarily last year with American consent.

WANTS A PLEDGE

There is no belief that England will be able to restore "convertibility" in the near future. But the United States would like to get a pledge from England that she will work towards the goal of convertibility as rapidly as possible.
